THE DOLLAR WEEKLY BULLETIN

John H. Oberly has reduced the subscription price of the Dollar Weekly Bulletin to one dollar per annum, making it the cheapest paper published in Southern Illinois.

Reading matter on every page.

MURKINSON precinct, in Jackson county, has a farmers' club called the Murkison Farmers' Club.

The Golconda 'Herald' exhibits a streak of meanness of which it should be ashamed. In a late issue it said the Hon. John M. Crebs was spending a portion of that 5,000 dollar at Minneapolis, Minnesota. It is not possible that the 'Herald' is ignorant of the fact that Mr. Crebs returned his back pay at the earliest possible moment after receiving it, and this attempt to injure him by the publication of a false statement, is unworthy even the editor of a Radical newspaper.

We have received the first issue of the 'Industrial Age', published at Chicago. The 'Age', according to its prospectus, is 'devoted to the interests of the people, and will co-operate with the patrons of husbandry, farmers, clubs, chambers of commerce, merchants and working men's associations in securing to labor and enterprise their legitimate rewards.' It will be a non-partisan weekly paper and will number among its contributors some of the best writers of the day. It is a thirty-two column paper of the appearance, and is edited by J. A. Noonan, S. M. Smith and S. T. K. Prime. As a journal devoted to the interests of farmers and laborers of all classes, we wish it abundant success.

The old settlers of Adams and Brown counties, in this state, propose to indulge in their fifth annual reunion, on the 4th and 5th of September next, and have invited Hon. Richard Yates to address them. In reply, Mr. Yates says he accepts the invitation with reluctance, distrusting his ability to meet even the most moderate expectations. "Though not one of the old-est," he says, "yet still I am an old settler. Forty-three years ago, in 1830, the fall before the 'Deep Snow,' at the age of twelve years, I traveled on horseback, with my grand old father, through Central and Southern Illinois, and in the spring of 1831, settled in Springfield. There scarce born, now the flourishing capital of this great state."

The contest for county superintendent of schools in Jackson county, promises to be interesting. There are, at present, two candidates, both ladies; both are tolerably young, and one is, if not beautiful, at least good-looking. One is single, the other married. One will be the candidate of the Republican county convention, and will be electioneered for as its other candidates will be—the other will be an independent candidate, and will let her general reputation as a lady and a teacher do the work for her. The 'Argus' espouses the cause of one, and the 'Era' takes up the cudgels for the other, and between Decker, the married, and Duncan, the single, it is hard to tell which will win.

From surface indications we are led to believe that there is a row in the Radical camp of Jackson county. The 'Observer', the organ of the old steady-going, whiff-hating Republicans, talks like an organ that proposes to hold back the tide, and possibly kick out of the traces. The 'New Era', the organ of the boys—a Republican, and with a hankering after free-trade in whiskey and any crumb that may drop from the official table, has stirred up the lazy old boys with a pointed long pole, has taken the inside track and is ahead on the course. Its editor, a gentleman under the rose bush, runs the political machinery, and backs in the smiles of John the senator, and like the representative. And therefore the editor of the 'Observer' is angry—very angry. But he will fall into line. He must. He will, when the party orders, eat dirt like a Digger Indian, and Johnny B. will lead him. But now is the accepted time in which to rally the farmer boys. The 'Era' is opposed to the anti-monopoly movement, and the 'Observer' is neither fish, flesh nor fowl. If the farmers should now nominate a ticket for the county offices, the 'Observer' would fall into line, not that it would love the farmers more, but because it would love Barton less. The Democrats should act sensibly and remain out of the fight. Possibly they will. Occasionally Democrats do not make mistakes, forget to exercise the quality of bull-headedness which distinguishes them, and become temporarily wise politicians. But whether the Democrats take a hand in the fight or not, the farmers of Jackson should throw their banners to the breeze and charge upon the Bartonites along the whole line.

NEWSPAPER OPINIONS.

The New York 'Herald' agrees that a sufficient length of time has elapsed since the death of the Chief Justice to make a choice of his successor a serious and immediate duty with the president.

—The Peoria 'Democrat' discussing the question of the governmental telegraph scheme says:

But every lover of universal liberty, and every well wisher for the prosperity of free institutions on our soil will resist to the bitter and every attempt to inaugurate these governmental speculations which can but result in an increase of the meanest of public corruption, and the further endangering our already threatened free government.

—The Ohio Democracy is thus remarked upon by the New York 'Sun' and neither of the 'ifs' will be much doubted:

If they are successful in this contest, and are cheered by a sufficient number of victories in other states during the coming fall, Senator Thurman will stand at the head of the opposition for 1874. In the other hand, they disastrously fail, it will be the end of the Democratic party, and the distinguished senator will be less formidable than his friends wish to have him.

—Thus the Memphis 'Avalanche': Commodore Vanderbilt, who has been very sick, has recovered. When he dies the railroad monopoly will go to pieces, fortunately there is no perpetuity in estates in this country, and the people should, by legislation, prevent such enormous accumulation of power in the hands of a few. This may appear to be communism, but it may be called by whatever name suits the taste of our readers.

The Springfield 'Journal' advises the same course and says:

Instead of putting in so much corn, why not put down their fields in grass and turn their attention to the manufacture of butter and cheese? They will find the investment paying large and steady dividends, from the fact that there is an unfailing demand for both products.

—It is becoming evident that Carpenter will soon have to rise and explain. He cannot follow out his course of dignified silence as successfully as Beecher did under not very dissimilar circumstances. The St. Louis 'Democrat' remarks editorially:

The New York 'Tribune' does not mince matters with Senator Carpenter. Not only does it adhere to its charges of infamous conduct, and dare him to prosecute (a journal of ample pecuniary responsibility), thus bringing the question to the test of legal proof, but it plainly says that the newspapers friendly to Carpenter, which insist that he ought to 'punish the slanderer' run before they are called, and that he will not dare to face any legal investigation. The 'Tribune' makes it very clear that it is in error, it has taken pains to ascertain the truth, and thoroughly believes that its statements can be substantiated. As that paper well says, this chief defender of the salary grab, Carpenter, is also the third officer of the government; and in the event of the death of the president and vice president—who is even now in the hands of physicians—the same Carpenter would become president. Apart from the disgrace of having a man in such high position guilty of behavior so scandalous, there is the danger that he might come to occupy a position yet higher. The exposure of the 'Tribune', if sustained by evidence, is therefore fully justified, and is but the discharge of a public duty of journalism.

The afternoon session was consumed in balloting for treasurer, but without result at 8 p.m. Senator Alcon will address the people at the hall of the house of representatives to-morrow night, and rumor says will appear as candidate against Ames.

FROM PITTSBURG.

PITTSBURG, August 28.—A serious accident occurred to the passenger train on the Pennsylvania Central railroad near Johnstown yesterday. While running at the rate 35 miles per hour, the second passenger car was thrown from the track in such a way that it ran into the tank of the river, and a deep embankment of about 40 feet being on the other side the platforms of the two front cars were jammed in. A cross-tie was thrown from the track in such a way as to prop the front passenger car at an angle of forty-five degrees. The rails and ties were torn up the whole length of the train and the sleeping coaches were thrown upon the bank. The passengers were found to be unhurt with the exception of a few bruises.

AN ACCIDENT.

also occurred on the Pan Handle railroad in Birmingham south of Pittsburgh, which, fortunately, didn't result in the loss of human life, but caused considerable destruction of property.

A cattle train, heavily laden, arrived from the West and was on its way to the East Liberty stock yards. About eight cars passed in safety, but when the next reached that part of the bridge at reverse curve formed by the rails of the Pan Handle and Pittsburgh, Virginia and Charleston railroads, one car jumped the track followed by two others. The train, which was going at considerable speed, parted in two. The sudden stoppage of the rear and the momentum of the front part of the train caused the bumpers and coupling to be pulled clear out of the fifth car from the engine. One car toppled over and remained suspended on the Carson street abutment of the bridge, and had it been three or four feet further on, it would have fallen on a street car which was just passing under the bridge.

A passenger train on the Pennsylvania Central, which left last night, RAN INTO THE REAR END of a stock train at Chester Valley. Three cars, the caboose of the latter, and the express and baggage cars of the passenger train were THROWN FROM THE TRACK blockading the road. John McDaurer and a flagman were killed.

For Gulf states, thence northward to Ohio, lower temperature, increased pressure, light variable winds and cloudy weather. For the Northwest high temperature, light southeasterly to northwesterly winds and generally clear weather.

FROM NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, August 28.—The promised report of President Watson of the Erie Railroad company, was not presented today it not being ready, as Watson became unwell while preparing it. The directors did no business owing to the want of a quorum.

The plumbers have quit work on the new post-office, owing to orders of the society, requiring eight hours as a day's work. All men employed on building work, or more hours daily, and are paid accordingly.

A $500,000 LOAN.

The secretary of the Panama R. R. company says a loan of $500,000, has just been consummated with the Pacific S. S. company, on terms mentioned yesterday, viz: A guaranty bill of sale on six of the Pacific mail steamers. The Pacific mail directors held a meeting today and appointed Capt. Bradbury and Messrs. Stebbins and Sayr a committee to close the transaction with the Panama R. R. company.

A BROOKLYN DEFAULTER.

NEW YORK, August 28.—It is now known that the Brooklyn city treasury is involved in a common catastrophe with the Brooklyn Trust company. Late last night it was ascertained that the city treasury had been robbed of a large amount, and Rodman, late assistant treasurer and secretary of the Brooklyn Trust company was the guilty party. Rodman, acting in his double capacity, was enabled to cover up the deficiency by making false statements about the amount of city money on deposit. On looking over the accounts of the company and the books of the treasury, Mr. Warren, an expert who is engaged in the examination, finds Rodman's default is as follows: Taken from city treasury, $55,000; general fund $98,000; Board of Education, on deposit with treasury, $20,000; total, $203,000. Of this amount City Treasurer Sprague made good $50,000 by the sale of his stock in the Brooklyn Eagle to Wm. Van Auden. The bondsmen of Sprague are Henry Sanger, R. L. Mulford, James Olwell, John Patton and W. C. Kingsley. They are fully responsible. The bond of Rodman calls for $50,000, and is believed to be well secured. It was said at the hall that Rodman would be secured before sundown, and lodged in jail. The arrest, it was understood, was to be made on an affidavit of Treasurer Sprague; but, if he failed, the comptroller acting under the advice of the corporation counsel would get the warrant of Rodman. Another prominent official says they don't dare to lay finger on Rodman, for he knows too much for them and they are afraid he will tell if they make him a scapegoat. It is alleged that in order to shield the alleged ring of speculators that the deficiency will be quickly met by parties who are responsible for the custody of the city funds. Treasurer Sprague denied there was a defalcation, and Comptroller Schroeder, although well aware of a defalcation, would not admit it. Two hours later it was admitted by both who stated it was necessary for them to keep it quiet from the fact that they engaged in raising the amount so that the city should not suffer. It is understood that Sprague's bondsmen pledged themselves to make good any deficiency, and Sprague made an assignment of all his property to the city, even his house. There are those who assert that Mills of the Brooklyn Trust company, who was drowned at Coney Island, was implicated with Rodman in this deficiency. Among other rumors which were rife, there was one in which a certain city department was also involved in trouble, but the nature of the trouble was not defined. Inquiry from officers failed to develop anything satisfactory. Mr. Warren has completed the examination of the books of the trust company, and has a report ready. No further discoveries than those already known to the public have been made.

The Brooklyn Eagle says the sum and substance of all statements made is that Rodman is to-day a defaulter to the extent of $248,000. That nearly three years ago he, with the assistance of Mills, stole $50,000.

The first five hundred thousand dollars first taken were discovered by the city treasurer shortly after the theft, and he was good by him without publicity. He however did not remove Rodman, but allowed him to continue his robberies. In other words, for some mysterious reason, after finding that this man had robbed the city, he was permitted in control of its finances. How long it is since the city treasurer learned of the theft which caused the excitement this morning is yet to be learned. As to the first operation of Rodman is morally certain he was seconded in it by Mills, for besides finding, their bank accounts increased exactly that amount, it is now learned in three days after they loaned in a private way $50,000.
